William A. Hazel, Inc. Names John Roddy New CEO

Chantilly, VA – William A. Hazel, Inc., (WAH) one of Northern Virginia's leading site development companies, is pleased to announce that John F. Roddy has joined the company as Chief Executive Officer.

Roddy is no stranger to Northern Virginia, having spent more than 30 years with Lane Construction working on nationally-recognized projects such as the Capital Beltway HOT lanes and the runway expansion at Dulles International Airport. Roddy, most recently the Vice President of Operations for Ohio-based Head, Inc. began his tenure with the company on March 30, 2021.

"I don't think we could have chosen a better leader to continue our company's excellent work and to help expand our reach in the Region," said David Hazel, who is leaving the company after three decades. "John brings more than 30 years of heavy civil construction experience and leadership to the firm."

"John is recognized for the energy and commitment that he brings to his work. We believe the company will benefit from adding outside experience, new and different perspectives and dynamic leadership as we continue to expand in the 21st century," said Chairman of the Board William A. "Bill" Hazel Jr., whose father and uncle incorporated the company in 1964.

WAH is recognized region-wide for its unique, turnkey approach that maintains control of the entire site development process. The company's projects span the Northern Virginia region and across Virginia.

The Hazel company name has, and continues to, label construction sites region-wide from Potomac Shores in eastern Prince William County to Willowsford, Stone Ridge and Lansdowne in Loudoun County and Franklin Farms, South Lakes and Fair Lakes Shopping Center in Fairfax County.

WAH popularized the concept of "total site development," with the idea that if you want something done right for your client, you do it yourself. For over 50 years, the company has created a legacy of success, dedication and commitment to the communities in which it works. Its long list of repeat clients is a testament to the benefits of its turnkey site development concept.
